When were the medical forms sent. The court required your firm to produce new ones at the last conference. Please email them to me if you sent out new ones. We did not receive any.

And I am available for a call at 3:30. Does that work? If so, I can be reached at my office.

Corey,

I have not received the medical authorizations nor the supplemental document responses. Your email only provides initial disclosures. So, yes, I will need to write to the court. If there is something to discuss first, let me know.

I did not receive any of the discovery items owed by yesterday's deadline. I just tried your cell but it went to voicemail. I will be filing a letter with the court today. If you want to speak first, please let me know your availability.

Kevin,

This confirms what we discussed during our meet and confer session held by phone yesterday, March 10, 2022.

While the last court order allowed us to move for costs if plaintiff did not produce initial disclosures by March 7th, as a courtesy we agreed to hold off and give you until the end of the day today, March 11, 2022, to provide them. If we do not receive them today, we will be filing a motion.

As far as plaintiff's discovery responses, plaintiff agrees to supplement those responses as outlined in defendants' February 28, 2022 good faith letter.

To the extent plaintiff has issues with defendants' discovery responses, plaintiff will first put them in a good faith letter and defendants will then respond accordingly and we can hold another meet and confer, if needed.

Thanks and have a nice weekend.

Adam,

I will respond to issues raised in your correspondence under separate cover, as I am crunched for time today. But regarding meet and confer, let's schedule 3/10 2pm or 3/11 2pm at your office, if that works for you. Should you want to discuss by phone, I will be available after 4pm.
